DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Cosman et al. '922. Cosman et al. disclose a method of controlling an ablation volume depth comprising providing a tissue surface treatment apparatus including a housing (137) having a tissue contacting surface (figure 10), an advancement device (140); positioning the tissue contact surface; advancing at least one electrode; delivering ablative energy; creating an ablation volume and minimizing injury.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8, 9 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cosman et al. further in view of Behl et al. Cosman et al. teach all of the limitations of the claims except conforming the contact surface and immobilizing tissue. Behl et al. disclose a similar method and apparatus for its practice. Behl et al. teach that it is old and well known in the art to provide a conforming contact surface thereby immobilizing tissue (col. 3 lines 31-41) to provide a uniform compressive force against tissue and inhibit blood flow to prevent energy losses. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to conform the contact surface and immobilize tissue to in the Cosman et al. method to prevent energy losses.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 10-9 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 9/14/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the disclosure of Cosman et al. found in column 15 lines 42-44 does not teach an advancement device, where the advancement device is configured to selectively advance individual electrodes of the plurality of electrodes from the housing interior. A stereotactic guide is considered by the Examiner to be an advancement device. Since the stereotactic guide could sequentially insert the electrodes as pointed out by the Applicant, then it can inherently selectively advance the plurality of electrodes.
